Fire destroys two Main Street buildings

No one hurt, but property losses are heavy

By WENDY HANSCOM

A cigarette discarded by juveniles is being pointed to as the possible cause of a late-night fire last Tuesday that destroyed two Main Street buildings in Bethel, left six people homeless and displaced four businesses. There were no injuries.

State Fire Marshal Robert Long stressed that the investigation of the fire is not yet complete, and he is continuing to talk with witnesses, primarily students from Gould Academy, and other local youngsters.

"Nothing is firm yet. We've got a lot of people yet to talk to. We do have witnesses that have told us there was a fire in the alley as early as 10 p.m. It was witnessed as a small fire. There was an attempt as early as 10 p.m. to put the fire out. They assumed they had the fire extinguished, but obviously they were wrong. They didn't report because they thought it was out."

"We have quite a few people yet to talk to. The problem is that a number of the witnesses are juveniles and some are unavailable due to Christmas vacation and such. There are some Gould students and some local kids involved.

"I consider myself rescued. I will hear her voice for the rest of my life."

The fire apparently started in an alley behind, and between, the two buildings.

"It's not a secret in the village that this was a favorite spot to smoke," Long said. "There's no reason to believe right now that the fire was maliciously set. If Gould Academy students were involved, they're not likely to come forward because it may mean expulsion for smoking.

"There was some debris in the alley," Long said. "It could have very well been a carelessly discarded cigarette that started the fire."

Gould Academy Headmaster William Clough said the school is waiting for results of state's investigation, but is also conducting its investigation of the matter.

He said he expects disciplinary actions to be taken when the investigation is complete.

The school's query has been held up, Clough said, by the students' departure on vacation the day following the fire.

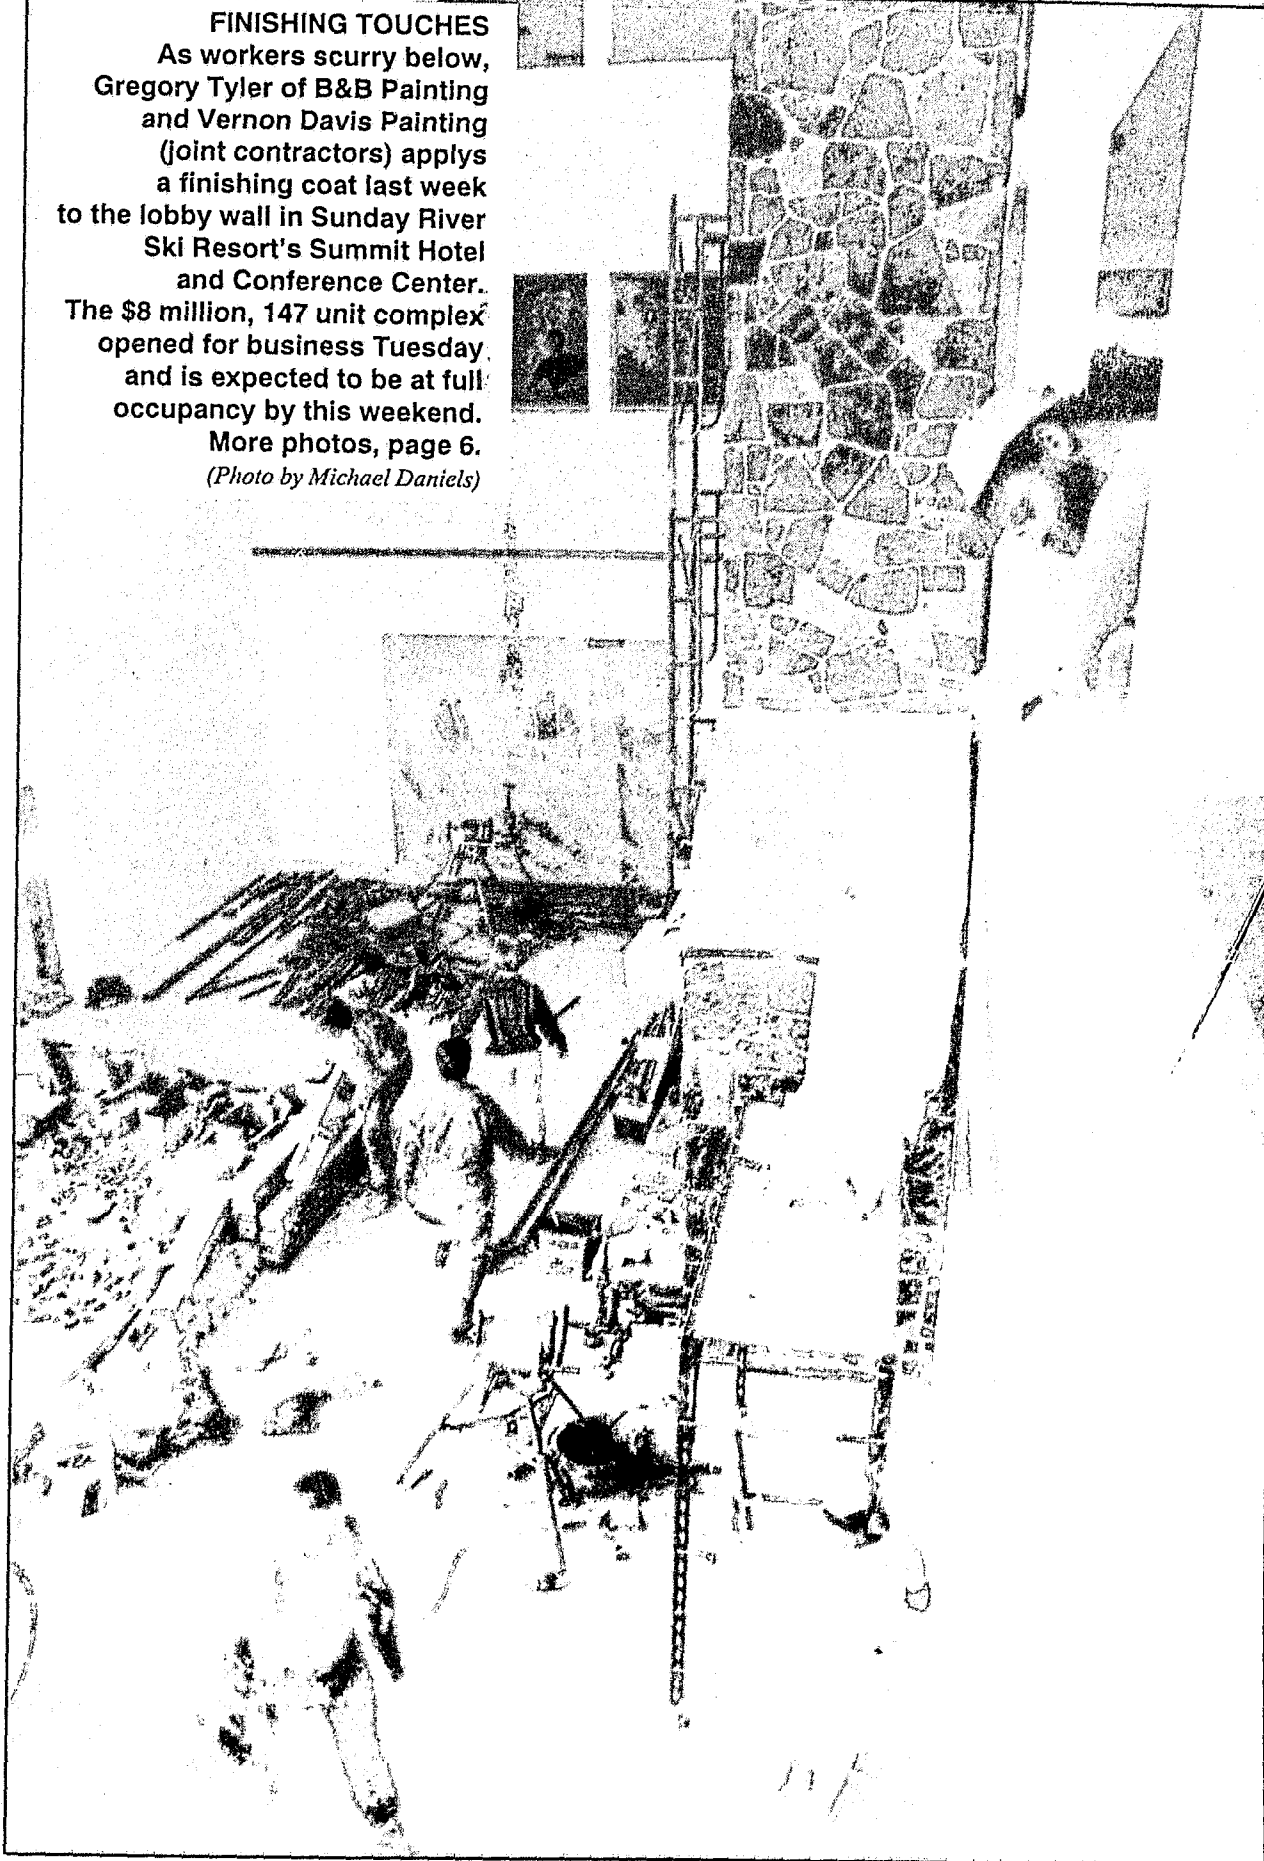

"The fire was really unfortunate," Clough said. "The entire Gould community regrets it."

Newry to hook a ladder truck from Sunday River?

By WENDY HANSCOM

If Sunday River Ski Resort goes ahead with plans to add fourth-story occupancy to its new Summit Hotel, it may have to buy the Newry Fire Department a ladder-truck.

The resort wants to remodel fourth-floor space at the hotel into lodging, according to Sunday River engineer Jee Aloisio, but the town's Fire Department lacks adequate equipment to fight a fire at that level.

According to the town's building regulations, the Fire Department must be able to provide protection for all new construction.

The Fire Department does not currently have equipment capable of battling a fourth-story fire or rescuing people from that height, according to Newry Fire Chief Virgil "Tink" Konkright.

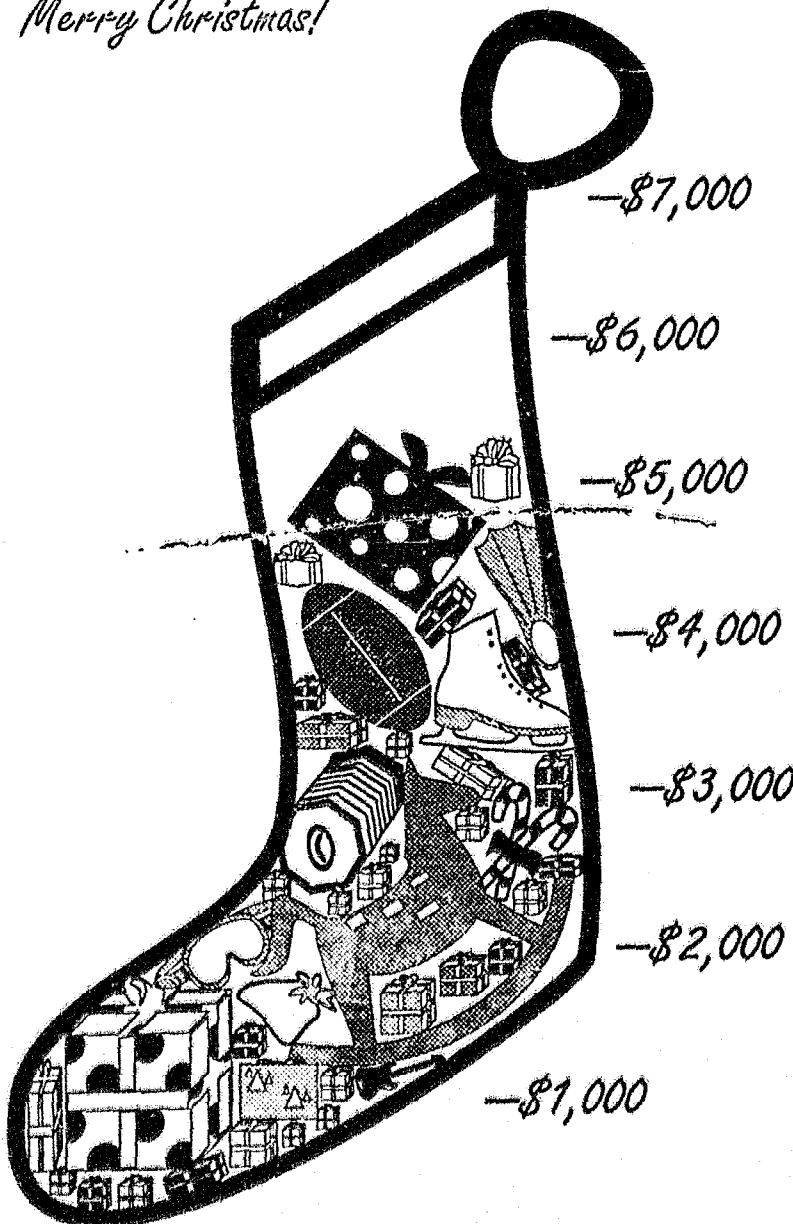

The Summit Hotel was not designed with four floors, Aloisio said, but the roof's design created inhabitable fourth-story space.

The plan gained approval from the town's Planning Board recently, but Sunday River must show that the project meets the town's fire protection requirements.

Rt. 26 accident claims brother of Julie Parisien

Black ice, speed, OUI thought factors in fatal hit-and-run

By JUDITH MEYER

State police investigators are still attempting to link the car of a South Paris resident to an accident Thursday night that killed Jean Paul Parisien, the son of Dr. Victor and Jill Parisien of Auburn and the brother of U.S. Olympic skiers Julie and Rob Parisien.

The two-car crash occurred at approximately 8:50 on Route 26, between P.H. Chadbourne & Co. and Gaudreau's Repairs.

Parisien, of Youngs Corner Road in Auburn, was killed immediately in the crash.

He had been traveling to Vermont in a rented Honda Accord, and died when his car struck a tree head on after being forced off the road by a second vehicle whose driver at-

Town officials fear more flooding from CPS addition

The Bethel Planning Board and Board of Selectmen are both raising questions about drainage runoff from the proposed Crescent Park School addition—especially about peak runoffs during periods when the ground is frozen.

Engineering plans for the project indicate that runoff would flow in two primary directions: either toward Vernon Street or through the Bethel Park Apartments property toward Mason Street.

And with residents on both roads already experiencing water problems during heavy storms, town officials have promised to look closely at drainage and erosion control plans at the site.

The officials' concern is heightened by the town's past experience with drainage problems from new construction.

"We got stung bad on the IGA parking lot," said selectmen chair Arlan Jodrey Monday evening, "and we're still being criticized for Bethel Park Apartments."

Superintendent of Schools Dewaine Craig and architect Phil Rea of Rea Designs of Auburn presented a preliminary report at the Planning Board's regular meeting last week, and Craig reviewed the plans for the selectmen at their meeting Monday.

Craig and Rea told the planners that the new addition and additional

CITIZEN CLOSING EARLY ON CHRISTMAS EVE

In order that The Citizen staff may spend more holiday time with their families, our business office will close at noon on Thursday, Christmas Eve.

Power goes out

A transformer failure at CMP's Bethel substation knocked out electrical power Tuesday afternoon for an estimated 2,400 Bethel area customers.

The power went out without warning just before 2 p.m. and had not been restored by press-time Tuesday evening.

The power failure forced a number of businesses to shut down and caught The Citizen in the middle of production day—with many items, especially town and Christmas articles, trapped for the duration in a comatose computer.

The Citizen regrets any inconvenience the omission of this material may cause to our readers or contributors.

Thank you all for the wonderful cards and flowers. Thanks Mom & Dad for your support. Love you both

Opinions

Peace, good will toward men

The saddening news of the past week, fires and untimely deaths, is especially painful during a season that should be devoted to family and rejoicing. Perhaps, then, it is even more important than ever that we stop for moment now, put aside the pressing events of the day, and consider the timeless story of a birth 2,000 years ago in a land far away. The story—however literally we may choose to take it, and with whatever religious significance we may or may not choose to invest it—still brings joy and peace to the spirit.

"And it came to pass in those days, that there went out a decree from Caesar Augustus, that all the world should be taxed. (This taxing was first made when Cyrenius was governor of Syria.)

"And all went to be taxed, every one into his own city. And Joseph also went up from Galilee, out of the city of Nazareth, into Judea, unto the city of David, which is called Beth-lehem, (because he was of the house and lineage of David) to be taxed with Mary his espoused wife, being great with child.

"And so it was that, while they were there, the days were accomplished that she would be delivered. And she brought forth her first born son and wrapped him in swaddling clothes and laid him in a manger, because there was no room for them in the inn.

"And there were in the same country shepherds abiding in the field, keeping watch over their flock by night. And, lo, the angel of the Lord came upon them and the glory of the Lord shone round about them, and they were sore afraid.

"And the angel said unto them, 'Fear not, for, behold, I bring you good tidings of great joy, which shall be to all people. For unto you is born this day in the city of David a Saviour, which is Christ the Lord. And this shall be a sign unto you: ye shall find the babe wrapped in swaddling clothes, lying in a manger.'

"And suddenly there was with the angel a multitude of the heavenly host praising God and saying, 'Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, good will toward men.'

Letters to the editor

DON'T TEACH FORNICATION

To the Editor:

The SAD 44 School Board members who voted against developing a policy to distribute contraceptives to teens and pre-teens at Telstar High/Middle School are to be commended for their insight and courage. They had the insight to make an accurate judgment and the courage to stand against the tidal wave of immorality that is flooding our nation.

Who can deny the truth that sex outside of marriage is immoral? The Scriptures teach it very plainly: "For this is the will of God, your sanctification: that you should abstain from sexual immorality" (I Thessalonians 4:3).

If a public school distributes condoms it will be placing itself in the position of facilitating immorality and giving its approval of sexual fornication among its students. In so doing, the school would be venturing into an area in which it has no jurisdiction. Such an act on the part of the school would undermine the moral training of conscientious parents who are seeking to teach their children what is right and wrong before God.

Only abstinence is safe. Only sex within marriage is moral. Distributing condoms in a public school condones and enables immorality. May our schools and teachers have the moral backbone to challenge our young people to do what is most beneficial for themselves and that is to abstain. Bethel students deserve the highest standards in education. May our schools not lower themselves to the point of being contraceptive supply houses.

SPECIAL-INTEREST BINGO

To the Editor:

Here we go again, another special interest group, this time the Passamaquoddy Indians, trying to move into Albany Township. The Passamaquoddy tribe have met with the director of Land Use Regulation Commission in Augusta to discuss their proposal for a 1,000-seat high-stakes bingo hall, a class two activity under the Indian Gaming Commissions laws. No application has been filed as of this date. The high stakes bingo operation would be located in an area on what is known as "old Route 35" at the foot of Songo Pond.

The Passamaquoddy high stakes bingo hall would operate 27 weekends a year and draw stakes players from all over the country to the area while allegedly creating 40 jobs.

Personally I have nothing against the Indians but I do have a real problem with a high-stakes gambling hall in Albany Township. Why here? Police protection and fire protection are nearly nonexistent as are facilities for those attending these games.

A key question is, do the Passamaquoddy have to conform to regulations on zoning like other residents or are they protected by Federal status?

Will their operation increase taxes or will they be tax exempt? Will Route 35 and Route 5 be able to handle the skiers, tourists and gamblers, let alone residents?

Will an undertaking like this force Albany to become a town, as it will need infrastructure where now it has almost none? There would not be any tax monies from the Indians or their operations.

As for the alleged 40 jobs the operation could create, I am more concerned about the people that would be displaced by such an operation. Atlantic City is a classic case of what happens when gambling takes over an area. Anyone who has been there and finds the bright lights harsh is even more blinded and horrified by the number of street people and slums evidenced after leaving the casinos.

We are talking in Albany of high-stakes bingo, not casinos, but as reported this week in the Portland paper the town of Calais has tabled a $10 million dollar operation by the Passamaquoddy involving casino gambling, and who is to say they would not push to incorporate such an operation with the proposed high-stakes bingo hall in Albany.

In the Dec. 13 issue of the Portland Press Herald Linda Nicholas-Seiler, a tribal member of the Passamaquoddy wrote that the assumption that casino gambling is approved by all Passamaquoddy is erroneous. She felt the only people that it would benefit were a very few Indians and Tribal Assets Management, a company started by Thomas Tureen the attorney for the Passamaquoddy. She felt that under their management a legal racketeering business could exist in Maine.

High-stakes bingo is not a casino but could the bingo be just a stepping stone to establishing casinos now that Calais is less receptive?

Finally, I would note that Albany is not an affluent area and I can envision many of those who now receive their monthly stipend from the state in the form of a welfare check spending the money in one night at a high-stakes bingo hall.

Gambling operations are historically surrounded by unsavory character, and racketeering.

Personally, as a couple who live in Albany and own property in Bethel my husband and I feel either operation be it high-stakes bingo or a casino is not right for the area.

This is a remote area blessed with pristine beauty where there is very little law enforcement and even less fire protection, hardly an area for high-stakes gambling—casinos or bingo.

To allow gambling would devastate a way of life those of us who choose to live here fight to preserve.

STOP BINGO BICKERING

To the Editor:

Two weeks ago I wrote a letter that I hoped would initiate some debate around the issue of "high-stakes Bingo." I never intended for it to break down into personal attacks on persons or groups. I was a bit shocked at the vicious attack on me personally. As in politics, the quickest and cheapest way to try to discredit a cause is to attack its spokesperson. I will not resort to such tactics.

I encourage anyone interested in knowing what the issues are to read my letter of Dec. 9. It seems that some who read it missed the point. I will take a lesson from my college writing professor when he said, "keep it simple." Perhaps I let my love of the English language get the best of me. So, for the sake of clarity:

The issue is not bingo, it is high-stakes gambling of any kind.

Although I personally don't play bingo, I applaud the efforts of charitable and non-profit groups to use it as a fund raising tool. It has become an essential and fun means to an end.

The existing low-stakes bingo games found at churches, Legion Halls, etc., seem to fill the demands of the local people. Isn't the idea to have fun and raise money at the same time?

Why do we need a giant for-profit bingo parlor? How will that affect the smaller non-profit organizations who depend on their bingo games to meet expenses?

The future of Bethel must be on everyone's mind. Long term jobs and the businesses that supports them should be the priority. My entire Senate campaign was based on that idea. I am proud of the over 8,000 people who agreed with me and I would do it again.

Let's move away from the emotional rhetoric inside the pages of newspapers. I invite anyone who is interested in the real issues to get involved. Examine the facts for yourself.

SO MANY THANKS

To the Editor:

Early last Wednesday morning while all eyes were on the devastation that was taking place next door, an army of wonderfully self-less people were helping me save my business by forming a fire brigade-like line and removing everything from Mother's Restaurant. They were only able to do that because of our vigilant and skilled fire department who kept hosing down my building while at the same time attending to the incredible blaze about 20 feet away.

I am thankful and grateful for all of you who could think clearly when I could not in the panic of the moments that followed.

If I could thank all of you personally I would, but the truth is I remember more concerned faces than names and more first names than last. So please allow me to thank you with first names... Jim, Mike, David, Sue, Berta, John, Arlene, Sandy, John, Amber, John and John and all of you who gave tirelessly of yourselves so that I could stay in business... Thank you.

I may have never known your names, but please know I know your faces and will never forget what you did.

In the early light of the morning when the task of putting Mother's back together seemed overwhelming, more terrific people came to my rescue. Heartfelt thanks too go to the men in Ron Savage's crew, Betty, Jaki, David and Sue for making Mother's look like nothing had happened!

You have all given me the best Christmas gift I've ever received. I feel blessed living in this community. God bless you all.

TOGETHER WE CAN DO IT

To the Editor:

Last week's Citizen contained an excellent article about the panel discussion set up by the Chemical Awareness Team. Reverend Bass, one of those present, also wrote a supportive letter about the meeting.

If this were 1975 the official response to the problems of drug abuse would be to pass a mandate forcing the public schools to deal with another of society's failures.

We know now that this is not the answer. Yes, children learn about the dangers of drugs and drug abuse in school and, yes, we have D.A.R.E. and other programs that help fight the problem. However, the schools cannot do the job alone.

If we in the SAD 44 area truly want to solve the problem then we ALL must become involved; parents, and families, churches, businesses, service and other organizations, and individuals, both users and non-users. We all have a responsibility and we cannot leave it to others to deal with. The costs to society of failure are too great.

I hope people will step forward when the Coat team sets out a plan of action to develop a community-wide approach to drugs and drug abuse. Together we can make the difference and together we will.

NATIVITY THANKS

To the Editor:

We would like to thank all of the many community members who turned out for the Living Nativity on Sunday night. Many people were behind the scenes to help out with costumes, lighting, set-up, animals, warm-up in the Inn, and to the players who, young and old, came through as usual.

It is gratifying to watch our community, one that has gone through so much tragedy in the recent weeks, come together for the beautiful Christmas story.

Bethel lost two well-known buildings on its Main Street this week. The bakery building dates at least back to 1920s. It is the site of what is believed Bethel's first service station, operated initially by Edward Robertson and his son Frank. For many years it was known as Central Service Station, owned by Jesse Chapman. Taxi service was added in the 1930s and in the 1940s a bowling alley was added to the building.

There was a fire here during the 1940s when Rodney and Kay Eames were operating the business, with damage estimated at $4,000. The building was repaired and two more alleys added. Eva Chapman succeeded the Eames family in operating the business; for a time Ernest Angevine was the proprietor. Other owners of the property included Richard and Alma Young and Charles and Sue Farrar. It was their daughter Michelle Farrar Keyes who sold to the present owner. Charles Farrar founded Charlie's Place here in the 1970s. Flowers by April Lynn was also here in the 1970s. Sue Farrar's Dance Studio has been here since about 1970.

The Kennett Real Estate building was built in 1859 by D.A. Twitchell as "a store and dwelling house" according to an item published in town's first newspaper, "The Bethel Courier," dated July 29, 1859. In 1867, Abner Davis and Moses Coburn Foster sold dry goods, clothing, crockery and grain on this site. Davis sold to Foster on May 3, 1867 his interest in the business. Other merchants who have operated here have been C.K. Fox and Calvin Bisbee. Herbert I. Bean once was in partnership with Fox. At one time Mr. Fox's sister, Lucy, served meals in the apartment upstairs.

In 1936, Leroy and Abbie Brown came to Bethel from Fryeburg to found Brown's Variety Store, which sold a great range of merchandise from office products to shoes. This business lasted almost 50 years before Leroy's son Jim and his wife Bea sold to Martin Mendoza, who operated for a brief time. After Brown's closed, the building was the site of Gillies Realty and later the William Company. After the William Company closed, the building was acquired by Edward and Mary Jo Kennett for use in their real estate business.

tempted to pass Parisien at a high rate of speed.

Parisien was alone in the car and was wearing a seat belt at the time of the crash.

A spokesperson for the state Medical Examiner's Office said Dr. Kristin Sweeney determined after an autopsy Friday that Parisien died of "multiple injuries" suffered when his car hit the tree.

According to the investigating officer, State Trooper Timothy Turner, police "have several witnesses who saw an early model, dark-colored Cadillac in the accident, saw the vehicle then leave the scene and head south on Route 26."

Witnesses also say that while the larger car was trying to pass the Honda, it "appeared to lose control and struck the Parisien vehicle and both of them went off the road."

The larger car then got back onto the road, Turner said, and left the scene.

FROM THE Bethel Town Office

As the year closes, and holiday preparations absorb our attention, I ask that you take a few moments to reflect on a few ways in which Bethel is fortunate.

The Fire Department has been well tested in recent weeks. The volunteer firefighters have spent several days and nights not shopping for that perfect present, but rather working in the frigid weather to protect our lives and property. Each and every one of them deserves a warm thank you. The effort of the fire fighters from neighboring towns also deserves our thanks. The cooperation between departments in the region is a wonderful example of neighbor helping neighbor.

The BEARS have also been busy. The ambulance personnel are to be commended for their dedication to service for the town. They have become very well known for the professional attitude they display in all emergencies. The responders are more than just a credit to the town, they are indeed lifesavers.

The police and highway departments, while staffed by employees rather than volunteers, are also due for some acknowledgement. This time of year is very difficult. With some people complaining of icy roads, and others concerned about using too much sand, it is hard for the police to know when to call the crew out, and the crew must treat the roads as they believe is best. Both the police and the road crew must keep themselves available for call out virtually all winter long. They are invariably called out on winter holidays. Let's keep in mind that although we may not agree with their every decision, we do owe them a debt of gratitude for that.

Finally, I would like to mention the work done by the volunteer members of the boards and committees of the town. Holidays do not necessarily slow down town business, and these folks are not generally given any let up. The School Board is looking at a budget, the Water District is busy with construction, the planning board has plenty of applicants on its agendas, and the selectmen have, on top of everything else, the transfer station dilemma. Volunteers flood the ice skating rink, sort the recyclables, and staff the District Exchange.

I hope all of you will take a moment to steal a scene from the movie "It's a Wonderful Life" and think about what Bethel would be like if you weren't here. I hope what that moment reveals brings the warmth of the season to you. Happy Holidays.

WEEK AT THE Moses Mason House

The latest issue of the Society's quarterly, "The Bethel Courier," is out. It contains an article on the history of Paradise by Margaret Joy Pettis. Anyone wishing a complimentary copy call the Society at 824-2908 or write P.O. Box 100, Bethel, Me. 04217-0012.

The lost two well-known buildings on its Main Street this week. The bakery building dates at least to 1920s. It is the site of what was Bethel's first service station, operated initially by Edward Peterson and his son Frank. For years it was known as Central Station, owned by Jesse Eames. Taxi service was added in the 1940s and in the 1950s a bowl-shaped building was added to the building. There was a fire here during the 1950s when Rodney and Kay Eames were operating the business, with an age estimated at $4,000. The building was repaired and two more floors added. Eva Chapman succeeded the Eames family in operating the business; for a time Ernest Eames was the proprietor. Other owners of the property included Charles and Alma Young and Charles and Sue Farrar. It was their daughter Michelle Farrar Keyes who sold it to the present owner, Charles Keyes.

Charles Keyes founded Charlie's Place here in the 1970s. Flowers by April Lynn Keyes also here in the 1970s. Sue Farrar's Dance Studio has been here since about 1970.

The Kennett Real Estate building was built in 1859 by D.A. Twitchell as a store and dwelling house according to an item published in the "first newspaper," "The Bethel Courier," dated July 29, 1859. In 1877, Abner Davis and Moses Foster sold dry goods, clothing, crockery and grain on this building. Davis sold to Foster on May 3, 1877 his interest in the business. Other merchants who have operated here have been C.K. Fox and Calvin Beebe. Herbert I. Bean once was in partnership with Fox. At one time, Fox's sister, Lucy, served meals from the apartment upstairs.

In 1936, Leroy and Abbie Brown came to Bethel from Fryeburg to run Brown's Variety Store, which had a great range of merchandise from office products to shoes. This business lasted almost 50 years before Leroy's son Jim and his wife sold to Martin Mendoza, who operated for a brief time. After the store was closed, the building was the site of Gillies Realty and later the William Company. After the William Company closed, the building was acquired by Edward and Mary Jo Kennett for use in their real estate business.

Don't miss the great savings during the month of December at the Society's Museum Store. Everything is on sale at 25 percent off. Hours are Mondays to Fridays, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. and by appointment, 8 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Accident

tempted to pass Parisien at a high rate of speed.

Parisien was alone in the car and was wearing a seat belt at the time of the crash.

A spokesperson for the state Medical Examiner's Office said Dr. Kristin Sweeney determined after an autopsy Friday that Parisien died of "multiple injuries" suffered when his car hit the tree.

According to the investigating officer, State Trooper Timothy Turner, police "have several witnesses who saw an early model, dark-colored Cadillac in the accident, saw the vehicle then leave the scene and head south on Route 26."

Witnesses also say that while the larger car was trying to pass the Honda, it "appeared to lose control and struck the Parisien vehicle and both of them went off the road."

The larger car then got back onto the road, Turner said, and left the scene.

State Police investigators now believe the Parisien car was struck twice by the second vehicle, once in the rear, forcing it onto the soft shoulder of the road; and then a second time, in the side, as Parisien appeared to be regaining control and maneuvering the Honda back onto the road.

"He wouldn't have struck that tree unless something had come along and hit him a second time," said State Trooper Richard McAlister, who is also investigating the accident.

A short time after the accident, Oxford County Deputy Paul Reynolds stopped a similar vehicle on Route 26 in West Paris, "determined the operator was intoxicated," Turner said, and arrested him on a charge of operating under the influence.

At the time of the arrest the driver, Derek M. Bonney, 30, of South Paris, was driving a 1971 Cadillac equipped with hand-controlled brakes and accelerator. Riding with Bonney was Kevin Lawrence, 24, of Mechanic Falls.

Stephen McCausland, spokesman for the state Department of Public Safety, said Tuesday that the Bonnie car had been taken to the State Crime Laboratory in Augusta, where investigators would attempt to link it to the Parisien accident.

Results of the investigation are not expected to be available until next week, McCausland said.

Trooper Turner said when Bonney was stopped, officers "found fresh damage to the side of the vehicle we expected the damage to be on." Investigators still have to prove the vehicle was involved in the accident and to prove who was driving, Turner said.

Bonney, who is handicapped as a result of an at-work injury suffered several years ago, walks with the aid of crutches and requires a modified control system in his vehicle.

He was arrested and charged with operating a motor vehicle under the influence and taken to the Oxford County Jail, where he was booked at 9:30 p.m. Thursday. According to Oxford County Jail Administrator Capt. Ernest Martin, bail was set at $1,000 bond, or 10 percent cash.

A family member posted the $100 cash bail and Bonney was released at 2 a.m. Friday, Martin said. Bail conditions included that Bonney may not consume or possess alcohol or drugs, and must submit to random testing for such use by any police officer at any time.

According to the booking sheet kept at the jail, Bonney gave "corrections officers a very difficult time," Martin said, including what was recorded as menacing and threatening behavior.

"From all accounts he appeared to be intoxicated and somewhat belligerent," Martin said, adding that the booking sheet noted there was an "odor of alcohol about him, and he was ready to fight."

Martin also indicated that because of Bonney's work-related injury, corrections officers are aware that he "has constant pain without medication."

According to McCausland, Turner indicated in a preliminary report that the causes of the fatal crash were threefold: "black ice, excessive speed and alcohol." He said: "We are in consultation with the District Attorney's Office. What additional action might be taken will be up to them and will only be done once we have a few more answers."

Turner stressed that linking the Bonney car to the fatal crash may depend on interviews and on results of the physical evidence obtained from the vehicles.

Turner met Friday with Parisien's family, and said they were fully informed about the course of the investigation and how police officers intend to proceed with the case.

An all-American skier himself, Jean Paul Parisien graduated from Williams College and was studying to enter medical school.

Both my children have been fortunate enough to have private lessons with Arla in addition to the instruction they have received in school. It has always amazed me what she can draw from them as well as all children she comes in contact with. She has a gentle, kind, insightful way of teaching individual children. She is a very special person and we were extremely lucky to contract her to be our "Artist-in-Residence" this year at Crescent Park. I hope that next year we will be as lucky.

"The Planning Board approved the modification with the condition that the Fire Department submit a letter stating they have the equipment to protect that space," Aloisio said.

The town currently has no funds on account to purchase a ladder-truck, Conkright said, so Sunday River has offered to help the town buy one.

"The Fire Department will work with Sunday River to purchase a piece of equipment that would protect the project adequately," Aloisio said.

"They're still shopping around, and then we'll discuss the finances further."

"We're hoping Sunday River is going to pay for it all," Conkright said. "Then at Town Meeting, we'll ask the townspeople to accept the truck as a gift."

Conkright said he's looking for a used truck with a 85- to 100-foot ladder, which will probably cost between $25,000 to $30,000.

The only towns with ladder-trucks in the area are Andover and Rumford, Conkright said.

Bethel also had a ladder-truck, but it is out of commission. The truck is uncertifiable because of mechanical problems, Town Manager Madeleine Henley said.

Conkright said he hopes to purchase a truck by spring.

The resort will go ahead and develop the fourth-story of the hotel, Aloisio said, but will not occupy the space until the truck has been purchased.

FIRE LOSSES--Last Tuesday's late-night fire destroyed two Main Street buildings in Bethel, left six people homeless and displaced four businesses. Clockwise from left: the fire blazes early Wednesday a.m. After over 12 hours on the scene, firefighters continued soak down hot spots late Wednesday morning. Irene McGrew of the Frame 'n Art shop recovered most of her equipment and framed works. She also saved several of her customers Christmas orders. The fire leveled much of Ed and Mary Jo Kennett's, and Yvonne Bastionelli's buildings and gutted the rest. The second-story tenants at the Kennett building were able to salvage a few possessions. Carolyn O'Conner, left middle, one of the four tenants in the Kennett building, stands behind a pile of clothes recovered from the debris and unwraps a soggy Christmas present. The four run Store-A-Ski, a ski checking business, at Sunday River Ski resort. The Sudbury Inn offered them shelter for a few nights after the fire. The inn levied a special voluntary cover charge over the weekend and raised more than $300, which will be distributed to victims of the fire.

My mind just went into overdrive. I was the only one in the building; Willis was up the street at a friend's house."

"Willis saw the fire and headed down the street to find me. (Bethel Police Officer) Anne Bertram started inside the building, but stopped to hold Willis back."

Cross said Willis tried to get past Bertram, but then realized he was keeping Bertram from checking on his mother, so he backed off.

Meanwhile, she said, her kitchen was filling up with more smoke.

"I had a box packed full of pictures and negatives," said Cross,

"I was just dozing off and thought I smelled something," she said. "I almost didn't get up. I got up and stumbled into the dining room. I headed toward the kitchen and there was smoke rolling out through the cupboards. It was just shooting smoke into the kitchen."

Cross said Willis tried to get past Bertram, but then realized he was keeping Bertram from checking on his mother, so he backed off.

Meanwhile, she said, her kitchen was filling up with more smoke.

"I had a box packed full of pictures and negatives," said Cross, who was in the process of moving. "But I put a scrapbook on top of it. It dropped and I started loading it back into the box. I was determined I was going to get out of there with something."

"Then as I stood in the kitchen doorway, I heard (Bertram) ask 'is anybody there?'"

"When I answered she just kept saying 'drop and crawl, drop and crawl.'"

"I couldn't understand what she meant. I was in my own kitchen. I knew the way across the 15 feet to the door."

"But when I got half-way across I had to drop. There was about six inches of air down there. I pushed the box in front of me."

"I consider myself rescued. I will hear (Anne's) voice for the rest of my life."

Everyone safe, but property gone

The tenants on the second-floor of the Kennett building were also still awake when the fire broke out.

"You could see the glow," Doug Pereira said. "We got out in plenty of time."

"The back wall of what used to be the barn was on fire," Tucker Woods said. "The place was just a tinder box. By the time the Fire Department got here the fire was out of control. Something blew up in the other building. It was like its whole interior exploded. All the windows blew out."

Pereira and Woods' other roommates, Carolyn O'Conner and Chris Minott, lost most of their possessions in the fire, as did the Crosses.

Businesses hit hard

Smoke and water damaged much of the inventory at the Frame 'n Art Shop. Firemen removed most of the files and keys from Kennett Realty.

Only a few records and some money was spared at the Hometown Bakery.

Sue Farrar of the Children's Dance theater lost everything, including sets and all her musical recordings for dance performances.

The Kennett building was valued at $119,600 by the town, while the Bastionelli building was valued at $150,500.

(In this week's Bethel Historical Society column, Dr. Stanley Howe discusses the history of the two buildings.)

Brown's Variety Store was located in the Kennett Building for 47 years. Former owner Jim Brown, who ran the shop for 43 years, surveyed the damage Wednesday morning. "I'm sorry to see it go," he said. "I spent many happy hours there."

Long battle

Bethel Fire Chief James Young said that when his men arrived at the scene Tuesday night, the buildings were a ball of fire, with flames shooting 75 to 100 feet up.

Young said the fire was hard to contain.

"There were a lot of false walls and ceilings," he said. "Every time somebody remodeled, they'd leave the old stuff and just build over it."

Young said Michael O'Donnell kept Mother's Restaurant wet with a garden hose until firefighters arrived.

The restaurant received minor damage to its siding. Much of the contents were removed during the fire, according to owner Sue O'Donnell.

"We removed everything from Mother's," she said. "I didn't know what to do, I was so sure it was gone."

It took over four hours to bring the blaze under control. Firefighters were on the scene for about 16 hours in all.

Firemen from Newry, Greenwood, Gilead and Andover also fought the flames.

Newry Fire Chief Virgil "Tink" Conkright said he could see the fire all the way from the Bethel Landfill.

"I could see the glow from the dump," Conkright said. "When I turned onto Cross Street I could see the flames. The flames were 75 to 100 feet high when I got there."

Water was obtained from nearby hydrants. Newry firemen got water from Mill Brook by Route 26 cloverleaf to fight the fire and keep Mother's hosed down, Conkright said.

Firefighters from other towns stood by in case another fire call came in.

Andover firemen stood-by at the Newry fire station. While Woodstock firefighters manned the Greenwood fire station, Gilead firemen were also standing-by.

Power was out in much of the Bethel Village during the fire.

Burned out businesses not out of business

By WENDY HANSCOM

Four Bethel businesses displaced by last week's fire are determined to reopen--whether they relocate or rebuild.

Edward and Mary Jo Kennett, owners of the building that housed Kennett Realty and the Frame 'n Art shop, are planning to rebuild next spring.

But for now, Kennett Realty will operate out of its branch office on the Sunday River Road, according to Mary Jo Kennett.

"It's going to be an excellent location for the winter," she said. "Then we plan on rebuilding in the spring. We've expanded the branch office into our entire home."

Kennett said the couple have moved out of their home, where the branch office is located, and will live in the Alden Kennett residence for the winter.

Most of the reality company's files and keys were saved from the fire.

"We'll spend hours recopying the records," Kennett said. "We have our work cut out for us, but we're here to stay and we'll do it."

Irene McGrew ran the Frame 'n Art shop on the second story of the Kennetts' building. The shop received some smoke and water damage, but most of McGrew's equipment was saved.

"We're going to work out of our home for now," McGrew said. "We're going to open someplace in Bethel in January--where, I don't know--but I'm bound and determined it's going to be in January sometime."

All our equipment was saved and is fine--my mat cutter, vacuum press and shrink wrap machine. It's just a matter of replacing stock and supplies.

"I saved just about everything people had brought in to me. We had a little bit of smoke damage, but I've repaired most everything."

The Hometown Bakery, run by Lois Kilroy of Bethel and Nancy Morris of Portsmouth, N.H., is out of commission for the moment, but its owners are actively seeking a new home.

The bakery was located in Yvonne Bastionelli's building next to the Kennetts' building. All its equipment was destroyed.

"We definitely want to reopen," Kilroy said. "We'd like to find a Main Street location. That's the place for this kind of business."

The Children's Dance Theater in the same building was burned flat. Dance instructor Sue Farrar said she lost everything.

Both Telstar High School and Gould Academy have offered space to Farrar. But giving lessons at either school would be difficult, Farrar said, because she would have to deal with changing schedules and constantly moving her equipment.

"We'll open up Jan. 12 somewhere," Farrar said. "We'll be letting people know where. I haven't ruled anything out. I'm looking around. I'm looking for a place where I can come and go as I please. We're going to pull it all together."

Farrar is asking anyone with tapes or records of all kinds of music to contact her.

She is especially interested in ragtime, Charleston and one-step music from the 1920s, classical ballet scores and today's jazz and hip-hop. She also needs tap music and children's "Raffi" personality songs.

No lack of support

All the business owners said they had received an outpouring of support and offers to help from the community.

"I can't say enough about the community support we've received," Mary Jo Kennett said. "So many helpful people and well-wishers are out there."

The four second-floor tenants of Kennetts' building have found temporary housing, but are looking for something more permanent, they said.

Christy Cross and her son Willis were living on the second floor of Bastionelli's building. Cross was in the process of moving to Augusta and have relocated there.

Lynn Mason of Bethel, who the Crosses stayed with after the fire, said several community members have donated money, clothes and home furnishings to the family.

Anyone who has anything else they would like to donate can contact Mason.

The Sudbury Inn levied a special voluntary cover charge to its guests over the weekend, which raised over $300. The proceeds will be donated to fire victims.

Two charged in G'wood burglaries, thefts

By ANDREW TURNER

Two men were charged early Thursday morning with breaking into cars at the Gilbert Manufacturing parking lot in Locke Mills and taking radio speakers, tapes, tools, cigarettes and other items, Oxford County Department deputies said.

Three other males with the suspects at the time, all juveniles, were questioned by police and released to the custody of their parents.

Oxford County Sheriff's Department Chief Deputy James Davis said Thursday that David Hamner, 23, of Rumford, and Timothy Bennett, 25, of Mexico, were arrested in Bethel and charged with three counts each of burglary of a motor vehicle and theft.

Davis said an employee of Gilbert Manufacturing called the Sheriff's Department at 12:15 a.m. to report seeing five males in one of the vehicles in the company parking lot on Route 26. The witness said the suspects fled north on Route 26 toward Bethel in a red Chevrolet Impala.

WORKING AROUND THE CLOCK—There were no guests at Sunday River's Summit hotel last week, but the new complex was full of activity as workers hustled to get ready for opening day. Clockwise from upper left: a worker adjusts the lights in the Legend's Restaurant (the photo was taken at 11 a.m., Friday, and by 6 p.m. the restaurant was ready for a roomful of volunteer diners enjoying a test-run dinner). The restaurant floor staff prepares menus for opening night. Long, empty halls. Wayne Fogg of Paul Wight Tile in Portland works on carpeting in the meeting room. The Summit's swimming pool bubbles in anticipation of tired skiers dropping in from White Heat (in the background). Helen Berube prepares a condo unit for a spotless start. Reggle Brown and Ken Cole of Ripley & Fletcher work with Legends sous-chef Nick Burgess on final adjustments to the restaurant's gas stoves.

Dear Amici,

Donald and I watched a ballet recently...its title was "Belonging." My eyes were focused on the pair of dancers as they glided apart and floated together across the stage. My mind's eye was suddenly struck with the truth that their movements represented: to love and be loved is to belong.

To know that there is some other human—even only one—who cares about you is to have the knowledge that you belong. From the manger to the mansion, the only real security for a human being is to know that he fits into a scheme where others care. That scheme is introduced in the family, extends to the community, and must eventually encompass the globe.

When we are born, each of us joins a family that welcomes us, nurtures us, and encourages us...if we're lucky. Unfortunately, some are born unwelcome, unloved, and uncertain. How do we know that we are loved? That we belong?...We feel safe!...We know that certain people, parents, sisters, brothers, aunts, uncles, and cousins will always be available for support, hugs, consultation, advice, and even monkey when we need it. That's what family is all about. And we are expected to return those favors when called upon. It's a given!

As you listen to what I'm saying, let your spirit wander back over your life's memories, be it a relatively short span, or a long and productive period. Think about the people who filled your days with events and love. How did you come to depend on them so much? What did they give you? What did they mean to your continuance?...Perhaps your joy comes from times shared with a father who nodded his approval. Picture his smile or his fingers tapping as you make music for him. Think about his unquestioning devotion to his tasks for the sake of his family. Or, if he smiles from the great beyond...remember him.

Think about your mother, about the work that she performs at home for your comfort and outside for your future. Focus on her willingness to help, her patience, her love. And if she smiles from the heavens, remember her voice and her joy at your success.

In your mind's eye, see all your siblings... the brother complaining as you tag along, but who springs to action if he sees that you are threatened... who helps with a project without a question, just because he's your brother! And see the sisters, one or many, who shared secrets, and dreams, and sweaters.

These people with whom you shared a womb and later a room are the closest thing to images of yourself. They care about what happens to you and offer their love and understanding. It's just that way!

Now, as brothers and sisters grow and marry, they make new families; they become aunts and uncles as they produce cousins of a new generation. As the love passes back and forth across the lines, aunts get to dote, uncles to shoo them, cousins learn that bound the siblings, sometimes with less ties... they insure a belonging as family love spirals outward.

And in the spiraling community, there are now many, by the same strains, munity, the love of form its miracles. sharing extends to friendships.

Think about all the large who have watched of need and who have kind. See on your the welcoming face, bors in their dooryard hearths. Remember laughter and tears, your good news of the arms that held bad times. And see or sewing, hiking or producing...are often. In such a and fun and goods commodities that know that they are and friends in the This is belonging.

Now the question translate the feeling, the world commun let all others know enough to be for the each other? We can level and then send the globe. If each that he belongs, smile with a strange beginning. If we others as if we were

How do we know that we are loved? That we belong?...We feel safe...We know that certain people, parents, sisters, brothers, aunts, uncles, and cousins will always be available for support, hugs, consultation, advice, and even monkey when we need it. That's what family is all about. And we are expected to return those favors when called upon. It's a given!

As you listen to what I'm saying, let your spirit wander back over your life's memories, be it a relatively short span, or a long and productive period. Think about the people who filled your days with events and love. How did you come to depend on them so much? What did they give you? What did they mean to your continuance?...Perhaps your joy comes from times shared with a father who nodded his approval. Picture his smile or his fingers tapping as you make music for him. And see the sisters, one or many, who shared secrets, and dreams, and sweaters.

These people with whom you shared a womb and later a room are the closest thing to images of yourself. They care about what happens to you and offer their love and understanding. It's just that way!

Now, as brothers and sisters grow and marry, they make new families; they become aunts and uncles as they produce cousins of a new generation. As the love passes back and forth across the lines, aunts get to dote, uncles to share, and from them, cousins learn to care. The ties that bound the siblings now bind the cousins, sometimes with great force, sometimes with lesser. But they are ties... they insure a wider sense of belonging as families expand and love spirals outward.

And in the spiraling, there develops community. Where once there were a few families bound in blood there are now many, often nourished by the same strains. In the community, the love continues to perform its miracles. The caring and sharing extends to new and old friendships.

Think about all the folks of a village who have watched out for signs of need and who have responded in kind. See on your inward journey, the welcoming faces of the neighbors in their doorways and by their hearths. Remember the shared laughter and tears, the joy of telling your good news or the strength of the arms that held you through the bad times. And see yourself skiing or sewing, hiking or haying, playing or producing...are you alone? Not often. In such a community, food and fun and goods and gratitude are commodities that abound. People know that they are loved by family and friends in their small world. This is belonging. This is good.

Now the question is, how do we translate the feeling of belonging to the world community? How do we let all others know that we care enough to be for them as we are for each other? We can begin on a local level and then send the news around the globe. If each of us who trusts that he belongs, would share just a smile with a stranger, it would be a beginning. If we were to treat all others as if we were already friends, we would be sharing a gift that could change a person's life!

An angry or indifferent heart is likely to beat within a lonely soul. Mother Teresa once called loneliness the most terrible poverty. Imagine the miracle that our kindness could perform! If we wrapped the grains in grins, and the soybeans in smiles, we could feed the world's hunger AND its spirit!

If you know that you belong, that you fit into the scheme, in family, with friends, in the community, your challenge and mine is to use the power of that knowledge to create a world community. We get to seek out the lonely and the fearful ones, to share our kindness and our wealth.

We get to enrich the universe with our love and our smiles. Herman Melville wrote: "We cannot live only for ourselves. A thousand fibers connect us with our fellow men; and along these fibers as synthetic threads, our actions run as causes, and they run as effects."

If each of us could help just one person know how warm it feels to belong...we will have performed miracles. And eventually as we pass them on, there would be miracles by the millions.

Two thousand years ago a carpenter and a nurturing mother laid their newborn baby in a manger, and they became a family. That holy child gave us his message of peace and love and belonging... We are all holy children. We all deserve peace and love. We should all know the joy of belonging.

Welcome one new friend into your heart this Christmas season; you and he will both enjoy the warmth.

Love is the miracle! Pass it on!
Love, C.B.

Well Folks, this is Tuesday, December 15th, and what a beautiful day thus far.

We had business downtown both Wednesday and Thursday. After getting home on Wednesday, I tackled rewriting a skit that we'll use at our Franklin Grange Christmas Party on December 21st. I expect many of you watched the eclipse of the moon the same as we did, that evening. It was a full moon and soon put in an appearance again. Thursday forenoon, we went downtown. I had to have some prescriptions filled at Laverdier.

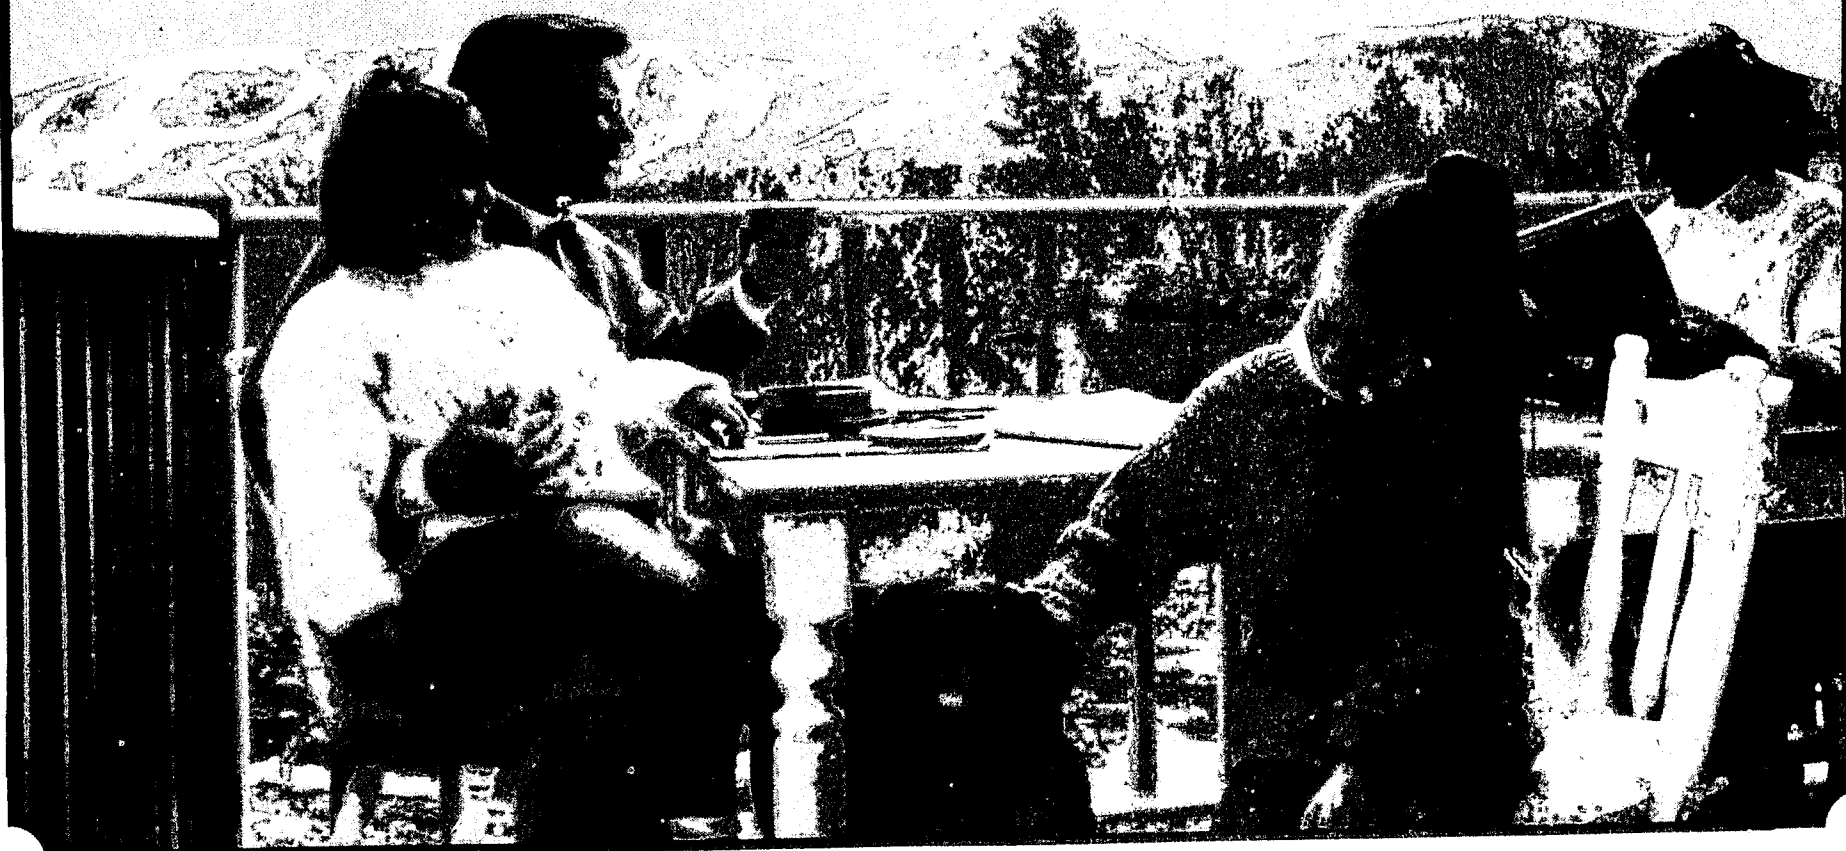

We stopped at Woolworths and then got our weekly groceries at Shop 'N Save. Then, after having a quick dinner, we went to Auburn to visit Viva. She was due to go to Maine Medical the next day for another chemotherapy session and should be back to her daughters today. When we got there on Thursday, she was trying to complete a list of people that she wanted to remember with Christmas cards. We were able to help her some with some addresses. She seems to have received some relief from the shots she had a few days ago in Boston. She can do quite well at straightening her head up, but must concentrate on doing it. She has received many Christmas cards and is delighted with them. I want to thank one and all for remembering her as it means a lot to her to get them. Her address is - Viva Whitman, c/o Michael Woolf, 2047 Hotel Road, Auburn, Maine 02410.

WHAT DID SANTA BRING THIS YEAR?—Todd Roberts peeks into the goody bag he received last week at the West Bethel Children's Center's Christmas party. Santa was on hand to pass the presents. Cindy Mills of the center said she was grateful to all the local merchants who contributed money to purchase gifts for all the children. The party is an annual event that provides the students with new crayons, scissors, paper, coloring books, a little candy and more.

paving at the site would not create more runoff.

But Planning Board member Reggie Brown disagreed. "Between the new paving and the roof, you're going to have a lot more water running off," he said. "I'd like to see a retention pond for a 100-year storm."

And at Monday's selectmen's meeting, Norm Putnam pointed out that while the total runoff might not be increasing, the peak runoff volumes will be considerably higher—nearly three times higher in the case of the Vernon Street watershed, according to figures in the engineering plans.

"The area didn't change, but you're delivering (the water) much more rapidly," he told Craig.

"The houses on Vernon Street all have problems already," said Jodrey, a resident of the street. "Just letting more water spill wildly down over the hill won't be good for anyone."

Craig said he had not heard of any such problems in the nine years he has been superintendent of schools ("I find that hard to believe," Jodrey replied), but Craig said would attempt to address the selectmen's concerns if they would provide him with a written list of specifics.

Planners questions

At the earlier Planning Board meeting, Rea said a series of collection basins and a retention pond based on a 25-year storm scenario were planned.

But John Bayerlein of Mason Street questioned if the system could really handle the runoff. Bayerlein said he was worried the CPS project would bring more water onto his property.

He told the board his driveway had been wiped out twice in March by two separate storms, which occurred while the ground was still frozen.

"There is a lot of water that runs down Mason Street now," Craig said, "but it doesn't all come from Crescent Park."

Several board members said that most of the current problem with runoff in the area came from Bethel Park Apartments, the Gleichman housing development off Mason Street.

"Several engineers—the town's and the developers—told us that the water drainage plans were OK at that development," said board member Reggie Brown. "But just ask the people that live near there where the water goes. We got burned on that one."

"We will have catch basins located around the site," Rea said. "We're not planning on cutting any trees. The retention pond should let the accumulated water out slowly."

SAD 44 wants fees waived

Craig also asked that the board waive the permit fees for the project, because the addition could be viewed as a municipal project.

The board made no ruling on the request, but said if the town hires an engineer to review water control on the site, the district would probably be asked to pay for it.

District officials hope to submit a completed site plan application at the Planning Board's Jan. 13 meeting, Craig said.

But Planning Board chair Frank Vogt, who attended Monday's selectmen's meeting, said, "There's a lot of work to be done between the planning assistant and Duane's people before they come back on the 13th."

Vogt said "there certainly will be a public hearing on the project," prior to final Planning Board approval.

Construction of the addition is scheduled to begin this summer.

Bethel Historical Society receives publications award

The American Association for State and Local History announced recently that the Bethel Historical Society is among the 1992 winners in its 47th annual AASLH Awards Program.

According to Society Director Dr. Stanley R. Howe, the Society was recognized for "an outstanding record of publication in state and local history."

Since 1976, the Society has published its quarterly The Bethel Courier, produced a series of pamphlets, "Made in Bethel" (1976), "Bethel's Broad Street (1977), "Dr. Moses Mason and His House (1981) and "Mollyockett" (1981), issued an annual calendar and cookbook (1979), reprinted two local histories (William B. Lapham's "History of Bethel" and Eva Bean's "East Bethel Road" with updated indexes and additional material included), completed a listing of all known graves in Bethel (1989), and sponsored two books by Randall H. Bennett ("Oxford County, Maine: A Guide To Its Historic Architecture" and "Bethel, Maine: An Illustrated History").

"Everyone at the Society is delighted to have this national recognition of excellence by such a prestigious organization as the AASLH," commented Howe. "We plan to build on our record in the future," he added. Founded in 1966, the Bethel Historical Society is western Maine's most comprehensive historical organization offering besides publications, research facilities, monthly meetings, exhibits, lectures, special events, period house museum, Elderhostel and school presentations. Over 900 members strong, the Society is among the largest local historical societies in the state.

X-C SKI CENTERS TO HOST LEARNING TREE SKI DAY

The Sunday River XC Center, Carter's Farm and the Bethel Inn will host Learning Tree Ski Days on Jan. 3, 31 and Feb. 21 respectively.

The Maine Nordic Ski Council has joined with the Maine Forest Products Council to host a series of Learning Tree Ski Days to benefit Project Learning Tree.

Project Learning Tree is an award-winning environmental education program designed for educators working with students in kindergarten through grade 12. By using the forest as a "window" into the natural world, young people become aware of their presence in the environment, impact upon it, and responsibility for it.

Each Learning Tree Ski Day includes a skiing seminar with a for-ester from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. Individuals and families can ski together for the rest of the day. The cost is $12 for adults and $6 for juniors 12 and under and includes the center's trail use fee.

The full Learning Tree Ski Day schedule is as follows: Jan. 3, Sunday River, Newry; Jan. 10, Troll Valley, Farmington; Jan. 17, Harris Farm, Dayton; Jan. 24, Natanis, Augusta; Jan. 31, Carter's Farm, East Bethel/Oxford; Feb. 7, The Birch-ches, Rockwood; Feb. 14, Katahdin Country, Millinocket; Feb. 21, Bethel Inn, Bethel; Feb. 28, Sugar-loaf, Carrabassett; March 7, Saddleback, Rangeley.

The Learning Tree Ski Days will be held snow or no snow. For further information contact the Maine Nordic Ski Council at P.O. Box 645, Bethel, ME 04217 or call 824-3694.

From the Bethel Area Chmb. of Commerce

The Chamber staff and board of directors join to wish all of you a very happy holiday and a prosperous and healthy New Year.

Congratulations to Grant Wilson Jr. and the staff of the Sunday River Brewing Co. and the Moose's Tale Restaurant for a successful opening. We wish all the new restaurants which have opened this fall the best of success.

The Marketing Committee of the

MANAGEMENT CLUB

Western Maine Management Club will meet at the Covered Wagon in Mexico on Jan. 4. Social hour will be from 5:30-6:30 p.m., with dinner from 6:30-7:30 p.m. The meal will be $14 per person.

The guest speaker, starting at 7:30 p.m., will be Steve Pecukonis of H.R.D. Associates.

Reservations for the meeting are being taken by Nellie Swan and Fred P. Saunders Co. in Bridgton, 647-3331. Phone no later than Wednesday, Dec. 30 to reserve.

Chamber met on Tuesday evening to discuss the 1993 Marketing Plan. The board of directors will be voting on a proposal at the January meeting.

Two social opportunities for chamber members and friends are scheduled for the coming weeks. Sunday, Jan. 3, at 7:30 p.m. will be a "Tour Around the World with Jose Azel," a slide show to be held at the Bethel Inn Conference Center. Jose is a world renowned photographer. This will be a real treat. Monday, Jan. 11, from 5:30-7:30 p.m. is a "Business After Hours" at the new Carter's Cross Country Ski Center on the Middle Intervale Road. All are welcome.

Our concern goes out to the folks who were victims of the fire on Main Street last week. It is our hope that they will be able to successfully restart their businesses.

GET STARTED WITH YOUR FINANCIAL PLANNING

This article is brought to you by Jane D. Gray, CFP

Everyone does financial planning. Some people do their own planning quite well; others need assistance.

Financial planning is more than just paying your bills on time and keeping an accurate checkbook. At least annually you should prepare two schedules. Both are easy to do and, if done once a year, will provide you with very valuable information about where your money is coming from, where it's going, and how you're doing with saving for retirement.

It's difficult to discuss financial affairs without some financial terminology, but don't be intimidated about where your money is coming from, where it's going, and how you're doing with saving for retirement.

It's difficult to discuss financial affairs without some financial terminology, but don't be intimidated by any of the terms. The first thing you need is a balance sheet, a listing of all of your assets and debts. The difference between the two is your net worth. When valuing your assets, be realistic. Put down the amount you would expect to receive if you sold the asset in a reasonably short period of time, not what you paid for the property and not what you would like to sell it for.

The next schedule you need is a cash flow statement. This is a listing of all the sources of cash to be received during the year as well as a list of all of the disbursements you expect to make. This may be more meaningful if it's done on a month-by-month basis for a twelve-month period. The difference between your total cash receipts and your anticipated disbursements represents your cash flow. It can be either positive or negative. If you have negative cash flow on a consistent basis, you should review your overall investing and spending program.

These two simple schedules give you your starting point (your net worth) and an indication of your ability to accumulate additional assets through investing surplus cash.

An accountant assisting you with your financial planning would start with these same schedules. Since you are quite qualified to begin the process of your own, why not give these schedules a try? Call if we can be of assistance at any stage of the financial planning process.

THOUGHTS FROM THE Pastor's Study

The Bethel Area Clergy Association, with the help of pastors of surrounding churches, brings you these meditations. Not based on any set theme, they will be individual for each pastor. It is hoped you will find in these words comfort and hope for your daily life.

Christmas is coming, ready or not. What does it mean to be ready for Christmas? We think of Christmas cards sent and received, that wonderful renewing of contact with friends; of Christmas trees and homes decorated for the season; of presents made or bought and wrapped for those we care about; of cookies in tin boxes; of dinner preparations; of donations to Christmas for Children; of welcoming our family and friends.

Whether all this and more or less is done or not done, can we ever be really ready for Christmas? The lights in our windows and on our trees may help us to remember that "The people who walked in darkness have seen a great light shined...and his name will be called, 'Wonderful Counselor, Mighty God, Everlasting Father, Prince of Peace.'" (Isaiah 9:2,6) Dare we let the wonder of it all fill our busy, dutiful lives with a new light of love? The mystery of it all is portrayed by the birth of the baby Jesus, the shepherds surrounded by the glory of the Lord, and later the wise men following the star to the manger where the Christ child lay. May we, like Mary, ponder these things in our hearts and be transformed. Are you ready?

I wish you a blessed Christmas.

Rev. Gwyneth Bohr, Minister
Monthly Episcopal House Church

CHRISTMAS 1992

You never said "I'm leaving."
You never said "Goodbye"
You left before we knew it,
And only God knows why.
In life we loved you deeply;
In death we love you still.

That nobody else can fill.
Our hearts broke when we lost you,
But you didn't go alone.
Because one part of our lives
went with you,
The day God took you home

IN LOVING MEMORY OF

Virginia Cole

A more gentle person there never could be.
An those who know her were lucky indeed...
She was kind, hard working and honest her whole life through
She would go without to give to you...
The love and welfare of her family came before all else.
And the love we shared was deeply felt...
She is gone from us now, it was Gods will, but the emptiness in our hearts can never be filled!
God Bless you and keep you
